

Detector-based counting protocol

Each detected bounding box is treated as one larva; predicted counts are compared against the number of annotated larvae per image.

